INDIVIDUAL TAX APPEAL.

Owner of a Hardware Store That Possesses Only Two Cook Stoves.

Individual taxpayers from over the State were before the State Tax Commission yesterday. Frederick Volland, of Columbus, was one of the vigorous objectors. The assessors of his county assessed his property at $11,000 after the owner hal returned it at $3,900. The County Board of Review reduced the assessment to $7,500, but Mr. Volland was not satisfied and appealed to the State board. In reply to Voland's statement the local board of review in defense of its action maintained that Volland had been attempting to evade taxation by misrepresentation. It was aserted that while he owned one of the argest hardware stores in Bartholomew county, he had given in but two cook stoves to the local assessor. J. C. Fetzberg, who represented the local board of review, declared that Volland and refused $5,000 for his stock of goods; that the local board had been informed that the stock was worth $12,000 or $15,000, and that he carried $7,500 insurance on his store. Volland and his attorney both emphatically denied that there had been misrepresentation. They claimed that the real estate in Columbus had decreased 25 per cent. in the last two years. There was another appeal from Barthol-omew county involving building and loan taxes. W. L. Klipsch took ten chares of stock in the Citizens' Building and Loan Association in March, 1893. He pald money into the association at various times often anticipating the amount necessary for the regular dues. Ex-Congressman George W. Cooper, who appeared for the appellant, held that this would be called current stock. On the other hand the county attorney representing the local board of re-view claimed that it looked as if the people were paying their money into the as-sociation to escape taxation. The county board had been led to believe that some men had paid in as much as $7,000, and it was in evidence before the board that as much as $1,000 had been paid in at one time. Governor Matthews thought that in this case the local board should have assessed only the amount found to have been paid in excess of the regular dues.

HOURS SELLING CONVENTION TO-NIGHT

SPIRITED INTEREST SHOWN LAST NIGHT AT PRIMARIES.

Contests Numerous-Trusler's Forces Claim the Victory, but Others Profess to Be Hopeful.

The primaries last night were largely attended and a great deal of earnestness shown by the friends of the various candidates for Mayor. There were more contests than usual for Republican conventions and the committee was kept busy until a late hour settling them. The North Side precints were particularly well attended. The candidates as far as heard received fair treatment and won or lost on the merits in almost every precinct where Republicans are strong. "Slates" were put out in printed form, and in many instances were shattered by the opposing side. The day had been spent by all the candidates and their friends in urging voters to attend the primaries and express their choice. The friends of Mr. Trusler were very confident, they said last night, and Dr. Wagner expressed himself as highly pleased with the showing he had made. There were expressions of pleasure also from adherents of Charles A. Bookwalter, who, it was conceded, had made a better showing than was expected. The Bookwalter and Wagner forces together, it was claimed by those opposed to Mr. Trusler, would be able to prevent a nomination on the first ballot, but the other side claimed to have secured four hundred of the delegates. The number of delegates in the convention will be 631, and it will require 316 votes to nominate. The names of all the delegates were not reported either to the Journal or to the committee and the result could not be foretold. It was plain at midnight that the contest had not been settled beyond doubt.

The convention will meet in Tomlinson Hall at 8 p. m., but will occupy only the lower floor. The upstairs quarters are being repaired. The convention will have Are guaranteed. Call and examhe having been agreed upon by all the candidates. The committees on organiza-Daniel M. Ransdell as its presiding officer, tion, rules, platform. etc., will be made known to-day. The committee on contests was appointed yesterday and spent the night in hearing the evidence in the several cases of contest. The committee consists of J. W. Fesler, chairman, representing the interests of Mr. Bookwalter; O. B. Pettijohn, representing those of Mr. Wagner; M. Steinhauer and George B. Elliott, representing those of Mr. Trusler, and William F. Lander, who, it is said, favors the nomination of M. M. Cummings. The Bookwalter following, however, claimed that Lander is really a Trusler man and there were preparations made to carry the contest to the floor of the convention if the decision was not satis-factory. There were said to be ten contests, but there was so much to be done with them last night that the committee could not make a report before going to At 1 o'clock this morning there were about fifty men in Superior Court room No. 2, waiting to be heard by the committee. It hastened the examinations as much as possible, but at that hour it was thought that it would be two hours before all of the contestants present could be heard. Most of testants present could be heard. Most of the questions were technical, such as always come up for consideration when an interest is taken in the primaries. A contest in the eighth precinct of the Fourteenth ward was settled after 1 a. m. in favor of the Trussler slate. The delegates not seated were for Wagner. There were numerous rumors aftoat that other names than the three prominent ones would be than the three prominent ones would be placed in nomination, among them being that of Newt Harding, William F. Taylor and ex-County Commissioner Ostermeyer. The delegates are as follows:

SCHOOL BOARD ROUTINE.

Treasurer Adam's Bond Approved-Woodruff School Contract.

The School Board met in regular session last evening and disposed of a good deal of routine business. All the members of the board were present except Appel. Mr. Russe, of the finance committee, presented the bond of C. H. Adam as treasurer of the board and recommended that it approved. The bond is for $100,000, and is signed by E. G. Cornelius and Philander Fitzgerald. It was approved. Mr. Russe also presented the contract signed by the finance committee of the Board of School Trustees of Woodruff Place, by the terms of which the children of Woodruff, beginning with the September term, are to be permitted to attend the public schools of Indianapolis and have all school advantages except the right of admission to the Manual Training School, In return for this privilege the authorities of Woodruff are to pay into the treasury of the School Board the whole tax for 1896 of 25 cents on the hundred dollars levied for school purposes. The children of Woodruff of school age are also to be enumerated, and the amount that Woodruff would be entitled to on the basis of her school population is to be paid into the treasury of the School Board. Mr. Roth objected to this arrangement unless Wood-ruff paid a five-cent tax to pay for the Manual Training School and for its maintenance. It was pointed out that Wood-ruff, under the terms of the contract, is not entitled to admission to the training school, and the contract was ratified. The committee on furniture and supplies recommended the purchase from F. M. Herron of sixty clocks, at $4.50 each. Laid reported recommending the purchase of various devices, tools and appliances for the Manual Training School, as per the contract proposed by H. H. Hanna, acting as agent for the several bidders. Laid over under the rules. The committee on teachers and salaries recommended the ap-pointment of J. W. Culver as teacher of English at the Manual Training School, at a salary of $800 a year. The recommendation was concurred in. The committee on rules made a report recommending various changes, the most important being the extension of the term of the superintendent from two to five years, and the creation of a committee on physical training. The report went over until the next regular meeting. Sundry contracts for school supplies were approved and the board adjourned.

FITZGERALD RETURNS.

Colony Progressing-All Happy, Except Officeholders.

P. H. Fitzgerald, founder of the American Tribune Soldier Colony Company, has returned from Georgia, bringing with him luscious samples of peaches and other fruit grown in the region of Georgia where the colony is situated. "I met 123 of the club members," said Mr. Fitzgerald yesterday to a Journal reporter, "and they viewed their prospective home with much satisfaction. They were stopping at Lulaville, Abbeyville and Swan, small villages, which became somewhat excited at the presence of so many active, energetic Northerners with money in their pockets. Some showed an inclination to think they ought to receive more for their lands, but we experienced no trouble in perfecting the negotiations, which were clinched by options. Governor Northen is under contract to deliver to us 100,000 acres at $3.50 an acre, though some of the land costs him $8 or $9 an acre. Arrangements have been made to build the stretch of eight miles connecting two railroad spurs, so that we will have a railroad running directly through the colony. I regret that so many club members have gone South before we were ready. There are a few less than 12,000 members, and nearly $15,000 has been paid in. As fast as it comes it is sent to Governor Northen to take up more land. We have 30,000 acres secured. and when 50,000 acres have been taken up the surveyor will be put to work to locate the surveyor will be put to work to locate the town and prepare the plats for the drawings. We have organized as far as it is possible under the laws of Georgia, which require five weeks' publication to make an election of officers legal. This will prevent us getting ready for the drawing before October. The people of the county gave us a warm welcome, except a few of the office-holding families, who have been drawing official salaries in their families for generations. Some of these seemed to fear that tions. Some of these seemed to fear that the new citizens might disturb their hold upon official preferments. The colony so far is a success, and I see no reason why it should not continue so.

Miss Graves is well known by the police. Yesterday afternoon she called upon Superintendent Powell and told him a few things. She had been drinking and it finally became necessary to have her removed from the office. Last evening, about 10 o'clock, a report came to hyadquarters that a drunken woman masquerading in male pttire was attracting a great deal of atten-tion on North Delaware street. Sergeant Kurtz was sent out to investigate and he found the woman on Washington street near Delaware. She had another woman backed up against a building and she was talking loud and fast of the great case she was going to unfathom. She wore a stiff hat, a white shire and a nigh collar, a frock coat and a pair of light trousers. The outfit was a nobby one and she probably would have worked on the case undisturbed had she not taken a few too many

A WOMAN IN THE CASE

A NEW DETECTIVE APPEARS IN WEST INDIANAPOLIS.

She Thinks Her Sex Will Give He Opportunities That Men Do Not Have-No New Clews Discovered.

A woman detective appeared in West Indianapolis yesterday to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of little Ida Gebhard. At a late hour last night the child's murder was as much a mystery as ever. The woman spent much time in the neighborhood and around the Gebhard home, but if she obtained anything to direct her it was more than any one else has done up to date, and she said nothing about it. The woman detective apparently depended upon her sex to get something from the women of the neighborhood, for she talked to several of them about the tragedy. She was tall and slender, and dressed in black. She walked and talked as if she saw and heard everything in a moment's time. Those who met her say she has "an eagle eye," an indication of the true-born detective. The other detectives were not so numerous as upon former days, as a majority has evidently reached the conclusion that the case is not as easily explained as it might appear to a

From indications it seems that some work known to detectives as "dirty work" has been done in the case. Three-fourths of the detectives who worked upon the case endeavored to force Mrs. Gebhard, the mother, into making some kind of a confession. A number of alleged reports have been told her, and it has developed that they are lies without foundation. It has been alleged that "so and so" has told convicting testimony, and Mrs. Gebhard has been confronted with many of the lies, but at no time has she wavered from her story. It will be remembered that a child's hair was found clinging to some boards in the well. It is claimed that these were placed there to form evidence in the line chosen by some one with a theory. The day after the The committee also | child's body was found the boards were closely examined, and not a hair could be found. They were held to the light, as it was thought that perhaps hair could be found, but not one could be seen. 'Squire Herig, who was present at the first examination, is sure that the hair was placed there after that. It is an old trick among unscrupulous detectives to manufacture evidence against a person under suspicion. It is also thought by some that the hair was placed there by the murderer of the child, who probably did so to throw suspicion upon the Gebhards.

A dispatch from Dowagiac, Mich., the home of the Gebhards, says that the body of the child was exhumed, and there was a $1.00 FOR THE ROUND TRIP. $1.00 doubt about it being that of Ida. It was thought by some there that the body was too large, being that of a girl probably five years of age. It was also thought that the body was too badly decomposed to be that of Ida Gebhard. The theory that a body had been substituted was one of the first to be investigated. The undertakers say the body was not decomposed more than could be expected after four days' exposure. The head and neck were in a very bad condition, but the body was not much effected. No child corresponding in years is known to have been buried during the week of Ida's disappearance, and no child is reported as missing. The undertakers say the body had not been in a grave; that is, it could not have been there any length or time and been in the condition as found.

Mr. Gebhard received a letter from his thome last evening, in which he was informed that the relatives who viewed the exhumed body were satisfied that it was that of his child, as was the physician, who was well accomplished with her than the relative who was a well accomplished with her than the relative who was a well accomplished with her than the relative who was the physician, who was well accomplished with her than the relative who was the physician who was a well accomplished with the relative who was the physician who was the physician who was a well accomplished with the relative who was the physician was well acquainted with her. Father Boaz, of Dowagiac, sends to Superintendent Powell excellent certificate of character for Mr. Gebhard and wife. The Dowagiac Times of July 30 quotes at length from the Jour-nal's account of the affair, and says, editorially: "Whisperings of evil work upon the part of Mr. and Mrs. George Gebhard have been flying about the city like a blaze in a bale of cotton, all started by messages sent here from the Indianapolis police. These rumors come to a sudden halt every time they run against a party who knows Mr. or Mrs. George Gebhard. If gossips have any sense of justice or mercy, they will stop all such foolish tattle. Have they not the imagination to place themselves in the position of these heart-broken parents, just subjected to the most terrible tragedy a mother and father can be placed under, and imagine for a moment what such a charge, or even suspicion, means. Mrs. Gebhard is a daughter of Charles Benke, an honest and most re-spectable farmer, well known here for thir-ty-five years. She enjoys a reputation above reproach. George Gebhard stands behind a record that at once exonerates him from the commission of such a crime. He pays his debts promptly. We have been to many of our business men, and to George Gebhard's associates, and all are indignant that such a foul-mouthed gossip should move an inch in our social atmosphere. George Gebhard bears an enviable record and reputation that comes to his ald in this time of terrible trouble. Is this the best the Indianapolis authorities have to offer as the source of the cruel destruction of little Ida Gebhard? Can they do nothing better than to run their detective dagger into the already bleeding hearts of these bowed-down and grief-stricken parents?" Coroner Castor is without an idea of the case, and if he were to render a verdict to-day it would be that little Ida came to her death at the hands of unknown people. The Indianapolis detectives are not working actively, but they have several undeveloped clews which may solve the mystery. It is thought that the name of the guilty person has never been used in connection with the

RECEPTION TO GENERAL LAWLER. Large Number of Veterans Shook His

Hand at G. A. R. Hall Last Night. It was a hearty and royal welcome which the Grand Army men in this city gave to Commander-in-chief Lawler yesterday afternoon on his arrival in this city. He was met at the train by a delegation representing the different posts and escorted to department headquarters in the Statehouse and then about the city. Commander-inchief Lawler was attended by Adjutant general Jones, Quartermaster General Ferst and Comrade Raper, of his staff. They were finally taken to the Denison House, where they were the guests of the Grand Army committee. Before the guests had eaten supper comrades begun to assemble at the hotel to escort the Commander-in-chief to Grand Army Hall, which was well filled with comrades and ladies when the guests and escort arrived.

The meeting was called to order by Comrade I. N. Walker, who introduced Department Commander Shively to welcome the Commander-in-chief to Indiana. As the Department Commander rose he was warmly greeted, as were the patriotic and eloquent remarks with which he welcomed his superior officer to Indiana.

On being introduced Commander-in-chief Lawler was received with rounds of applause. He followed with an address which was full of good sense and patriotic sentiment. In beginning he said that he desired to express his obligation to Comrade I. N. Valker for his kind attention during the rear-no comrade has rendered better servce. "I hope to have the honor of turning over the position I now hold to him in a few weeks," said the Commander-in-chief—a remark which was greeted with pplause. He went on to say that he was delighted to note the improvement in the city of Indianapolis in the past two years.
It was worthy of being the home of that good comrade whom all hongs and love—
Benjamin Harrison—a statement which was llowed with enthusiastic applause. Of the present pension policy the Commanderin-chief spoke in severe words:

"Men too old to battle with the affairs of life, needy and helpless, are having their pensions, granted under the law of 1890, cut from $12 to $8 and from $10 to $6. This is against the sentiment of the American people. We ask no new legislation, but we do protest against the cutting down of the pensions of needy and helpless men. We are against fraud. We will help to expose traud."
He commended Indiana for starting a State Soldiers' Home, spoke eloquently of the work the W. R. C. is doing in connection with all the posts. He complimented the G. A. R. of Indiana for taking the lead in demanding text-books for the schools that will give an impartial history of the war. Traveling through the South the Commander-in-chief rejoiced to find a wonderful change. Its people are coming to love the Union. The Confederate soldiers of to-day regard it the greatest honor to stand under the flag of the

"At Louisville next month," he continued "the G. A. R. will receive a splendid wel-come. There will be nothing but a parade of Union soldiers, but Confederates will look on without bitterness of heart, for in his heart he knows the Union is best and loves it. They will sing the Union songs, float and march under the Union flag, rot in the spirit of victors and vanquished, but as the lovers of one country and one flag. Louisville will give you royal welcome. Will Indiana have the most men in line? Will you help to make a demonstration in a spirit that will quicken the patriotism of the South and fuse North and South into one people?"

The address of the Commander-in-chief was listened to with deep interest and frequently applauded, particularly the reference to national unity. He was visited more departments than any of his Iredecessors—forty-four in all—from Maine to Adjutant General Jones, Quartermaster-General Berst, Attorney-general Ketcham, General Carnahan, Hon. S. N. Chambers and H. C. Adams made addresses. The Bald-heads sung to the great amusement of the audience. Colonel Roper and Miss Zora Bartines sang songs which delighted the listeners. It was nearly 11 o'clock when the last of the audience bid Commander-in-chief Lawler good-bye. The introductions were made by Comrade I. N. Walker and it, was a most successful affair. The Thirty-Seventh's Reunion. The Thirty-seventh Indiana will hold its next annual reunion at Louisville, Ky. Tuesday, Sept. . 10, 1895, in the old custo house building, the day before the grand parade. For information as to board and lodging comrades are asked to address com-rade J. F. Spencer, Moores Hill, Ind.
